The Significance of sentence in the order of Umayyad era. Descriptive Analysis linguistic

By : Dr. Eman Al-Keylami

Abstract:

The Arabic sentence has simple clear forms, but outstanding linguists tend to change the order of the sentence for a special semantic purpose. This change of the familiar is significant because the meaning conveyed in this way cannot be conveyed in the usual way

The traditional syntactic studies that care for the syntactic function of words, rarely considered the significance of order in sentences.

The researcher studied this phenomenon in the speeches of the Umayyad era, and tried to link the meaning to the order of the sentence in an effort to reveal the significance of the change in the form in the historical and linguistic contexts following an analytical descriptive procedure.
